"We had a choice to make an investment in the community, and instead of becoming a tenant, we purchased this location," founder Angela Cortright said in an email. "We are putting our roots down and couldn't be more excited to continue our growth in RSM with this opportunity."

The new facility will include 11 treatment suites equipped with anti-stress, zero gravity chairs as well as meditation stations, according to a news release.

Spa Gregorie's is scheduled to vacate the current 5,000-square-foot space on May 31.

The company also has spas in Newport Beach and Del Mar. Rancho Santa Margarita was its second location.
